

Names to Know

Barrington resident and Eagles fan extraordinaire Tom McAllister has written a book we can get behind. His memoir, Bury Me In My Jersey (Random House), is a literary ode to family, his father and all things Iggles. McAllister weaves his personal evolution into this tale of the unique brand of agony reserved for Philly-area football fans.

Moorestown dentist Kevin Atlee turned his soft spot for pooches into a charitable endeavor: $10 from every patient visit goes toward his Canines for K-9's program, to buy bullet proof vests for local police dogs.

RoseMarie Beauchemin, permanent makeup artist and founder of Mount Laurel's Beau Institute, has become known for donating her time to those in need. Lately, she's offered gratis services to breast cancer survivors, to complement the work of reconstructive surgeons.

Cooper Medical School of Rowan University has named its founding dean: Paul Katz, M.D. Katz, who helped launch Commonwealth Medical College in Scranton Pa., will help get New Jersey's first new medical school in the past 30 years off the ground.

Rowan University professor and five-time Emmy nominated radio host Candace Kelley received a Broadcast Talk Radio Host Award for her weekly show League of the Extraordinary on Rowan's 89.7 WGLS-FM.