

Pigment of the Month:
Face Inks Bamboo Blonde $25.00
(Regularly $30.00, Sale ends March 31, 2017)

Face Inks Bamboo Blonde is a fabulous Taupe color that can be used straight for a true taupe with no warmth (red or golden tones) or warmed with a drop of Butterscotch to make it a golden taupe.

I am a big fan of adding a drop or 2 of warmth (Butterscotch) to Bamboo Blonde unless I am working on my silver haired or Asian clients, where I do not want any warmth in my healed result.

Generally, I add my drop of Butterscotch, stir and place the mixture on my client's forehead and allow it to dry. At this time I can see if their complexion tends to keep it slightly golden. If it appears too cool, I add another drop of Butterscotch, stir and place the mixture on my client's forehead once again and allow it to dry. I am looking for a taupe with a tad of warmth in it so I know I will not see a taupe with gray tones when it heals. I truly have a distaste for ashy or gray eyebrows unless that is my goal.

Needles Make a Difference...

I tend to use a 3-Slope, Single or Micro-Blade to tattoo my brows. Since these needles travel deeper in the tissue than a blunt 5 or 7 round, I prefer to warm my color. These needles can heal with deeper and cooler tones than a larger round needle group.

Bamboo Blonde, a great color corrector...

My theory for color correcting is to tattoo the correcting color, lightly, on top of the color to be corrected with a 5-round.

* I do not use a small needle i.e. Single, 3-liner, 3-Micro or 3-Outline for color correcting and I do not place the correcting color as deeply as I believe the initial color was placed. I get a much better result this way.

Best Seller.....The Beau Brow Balance Kit

Eyebrows were never easier to place or measure than with The Beau Brow Balance Kit. No more guessing if arches or tails are in the correct place. The fun kit includes several measuring devices that insure exactness in your drawing. Your ability to create even eyebrows will allow you to tattoo with confidence!
